Preparedness Levels & Great Basin Fire Activity (from WFDSS)

Great Basin	PL 3	Light-Moderate Initial Attack Activity
National	PL 4	New Fires and Acres: 26 fires for 6,556.58 acres / 580 acres Large Fire Growth

Weather Summary:

... Mixed Wet/Dry Thunderstorms Through Sunday then Drier Next Week ...

... Breezy Winds for Northern Areas of the Great Basin by Mid-Week ...

On Sunday widely scattered thunderstorms will spread over the northern half of Nevada, Southern and Eastern Idaho, with isolated storms across Utah mountains. Some of these storms may linger overnight. Drier air spreads across the Great Basin from the west by Monday with only isolated thunderstorms possible in the far eastern portion of the geographic area followed by a few days of drying across most of the Great Basin. With the lightning that has occurred over the past few days and upcoming days, there is concern that holdovers will emerge as conditions warm and dry.

Isolated thunderstorms may start returning later next week over parts of the southern half of the Great Basin with also an increase in wind over parts of Idaho by mid-week which could further stir up holdovers from recent lightning. See High Risk for Winds Wed/Thu.

Fuels/Fire Potential:

... Fuels and Fire Behavior Advisory in effect for Utah, the Arizona Strip and Southern/Eastern/Central Nevada ...

While recent precipitation over southern and eastern portions of the Great Basin have resulted in a temporary moderation of fuel dryness and fire potential, the upcoming dry period this week will cause fuels to dry and fire danger to increase.

Fuels will also continue to dry over Idaho and Nevada this upcoming week as hot and dry weather continues.
